

reading is assuring us the Father cares deeply for those disciples who have the courage to live publicly their faith in Jesus and his gospel."

Bishop Denis Brennan of Ferns spoke at an ordination recently. He said that: "In these Pentecost days we need to cast off our fears too. We are not the first generation of Christians to worry about the future. In every age, people have written the obituary of the Church and our age is no exception."

Jesus tells us not to be afraid three times in this Gospel reading. He says "Have no fear of them", "Do not fear" and "do not be afraid." He is also telling us that his Father cares deeply for those who are prepared to take on the task of witnessing for him in the world, which was not an easy task in the time of Jesus and is an equally difficult task in the world today. He says to tell people about the Gospel "in the light" and to proclaim it "from the rooftops". Jesus also makes us a spectacular promise: "Everyone who acknowledges me before others, I will also acknowledge before my Father in heaven."

Like St. Therese, many of our opportunities to acknowledge Jesus amongst our friends, families and in our communities may seem to be on a less significant end of the scale but they are most certainly no less important for that. The greatest Saints were often those who lived the simplest lives and their contribution to the spreading of the faith has been very important. This is an example for each and every one of us to follow.

If we recall family members, friends, priests and religious who have assisted us on our journey of faith over the years, it can be very often simple gestures or short conversations that we will recall as being significant or helpful. As the Old Testament writers say, God is more present in the gentle breeze than in more spectacular events. In the week ahead, let us pray for the opportunity to bring the Risen Lord to others in the particular circumstances of our lives.

"Be Not Afraid"

25th June 2017

The poet Patrick Kavanagh had a phrase that God is present in the "bits and pieces of life." And, for most of us, the opportunities to live the Christian life can often be found in the simplest and smallest of circumstances.

St. Therese of Lisieux would say to "do the small things with great love" and Saint Teresa of Calcutta said "to be faithful in little things is a great thing."

In today's Gospel from St Matthew we are told that God is also concerned with the smaller things in life: "Are two sparrows not sold for a penny? Yet not one of them will fall to the ground without your Father knowing." In order to emphasise his point further, Matthew adds "even the hairs of your head are counted."

The Jesuit writer, Father Donal Neary, says that "Jesus is addressing the need for grace in our lives. Jesus encourages us to place our trust in those who care for us and to trust in God who does not want destruction but development." He goes on to remind us that "Jesus wants us to trust in God who would not even harm a hair on our head."

Father Martin Hogan, a scripture scholar, says that "in more recent decades, there has been a tendency for believers to retreat somewhat from the public domain. Many of us have become more circumspect in witnessing to our faith. We are less likely to declare our allegiance to Christ. We sense that the environment has become more hostile to the Gospel. There is a danger that we will have a collective loss of nerve when it comes to the gospel and to the church, through and in which, for all its faults, we receive and hear the gospel." Father Martin concludes that "Our Gospel

Dardistown Cemetery Mass

Sunday, 2nd July 2017. -This annual Mass is a huge undertaking for our Parish and many people are required to help our Parish Team. We invite Ministers of the Eucharist to minister at this Mass. We also require people to accompany each Minister carrying an umbrella (this will enable people attending the Mass to see clearly where each Minister of the Eucharist is standing during the distribution of the Blessed Sacrament). Maybe each Minister could bring along another person to help with this. People are also needed to help with the Collection before and after the Mass. If you can help in any way please leave your name and contact details on the list available on the table in the Parish Centre or with the Sacristan in the Church of the Holy Child or in Blessed Margaret
