

and love for our brothers and sisters.

Of course, the opening words of Jesus's ministry is not a commandment but rather a proclamation. He says "the kingdom of God is close at hand." So, while the Commandments are important, Jesus's main task is to proclaim that his kingdom and God's mercy are truly amongst us. The meaning of this passage is quite clear, the challenge is how to live it.

Given the extensive instructions in the Hebrew Bible (some 613 commandments), there was a discussion among the rabbis regarding the core or essence of the Law. I think we can all feel some sympathy with the Jews struggling to cope with 613 laws and wondering which were the important ones.

I think that the words of Jesus in today's Gospel are helpful and consoling. We are told that the entire bible can be summarised in two simple phrases which mean loving God and loving your neighbour.

It is said that when St. John the Evangelist, who was the youngest and longest lived of the twelve apostles, was an old man, he would always say that the most important commandment of Jesus is to love.

This is, of course, by no means an easy challenge in our world today with all the challenges that we face as we try to renew and revitalise our parishes. Perhaps in the coming week, let us try to create some space silence in our lives to allow time for prayer and reflection, perhaps either at the beginning or the end of the day. This gives us an opportunity to thank God for the blessings that he has given us and to ask him for what we need.

It is important to reach out to our neighbours whether at home, at work or at school and to assist them as our circumstances allow. During the Summer months, we must not forget the less well-off, and we might consider contributing to a charity such as the Society of St Vincent de Paul whose funds will be especially needed in the coming weeks for back-to-school expenses.

Blessed John Henry Newman once said "In a higher world it is otherwise but here below to live is to change and to be perfect is to change often." Let us pray in the coming week to be open to God's grace through prayer and reflection. And ask God to help us to reach out to our neighbours in need wherever we may find them. St. Vincent de Paul once said "do whatever good lies at your hands" which is a challenge for us all.

written in the Law? What do you read there?" He then takes these two

In today's Gospel from Saint Luke, which is about love, Jesus quotes directly from the Hebrew scriptures when he tells us: "You must love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your strength, and with all your mind and your neighbour as yourself." commandments from different parts of the bible and puts them together. Jesus tells us that these two great commandments resemble each other in importance. In linking them as he does, Jesus wants to show is that love for God and love for our neighbour are inseparable. He reminds us that we cannot separate love of God and love of neighbour. God wants us to love all the people that he loves as well, which includes everyone we meet in whatever circumstances. These ancient prayers present a real and immediate challenge to each and every one of us today. This brief exchange is found in all three synoptic Gospels (Mark 12:28-31 and Matthew 22: 37-39). In reality, it is also found in the Fourth Gospel with its extraordinary emphasis on love—love from God, love for God

The first commandment to love God is taken from the book of Deuteronomy chapter six. Its part of a short prayer called the Shema Yisrael, the great daily prayer of Judaism. The second commandment to love your neighbour as yourself is taken from chapter 18 of the Book of Leviticus. It is often said that the New Testament cannot be fully understood without reference to the Hebrew Scriptures. Today's Gospel is certainly a very good example of this.

In response to the question of the Lawyer, What must I do to inherit eternal life? Jesus says "What is

The Building Hope Prayer

Pilgrim God, we give you thanks and praise. You constantly journey with us even in our darkness and doubts. We seek your way of loving kindness to walk together as one family.

Open our eyes to recognise you in the faces of one another, in the breaking of bread and in the splendour of creation.

May the risen Christ sow seeds of hope and a new life deep within us.

May our hearts and minds be filled with your Word, bringing forth truth, justice and peace.

May the Holy Spirit working in and through us do much more than we dare to imagine

As we live out our baptismal calling in humble and loving service. We make this prayer through Christ Our Lord. Amen

Mary, Mother of the Church, pray for us.

St. Laurence O'Toole, pray for us

St. Kevin, pray for us. St. Brigid, pray for us.
